SEASIDE: PHOTOGRAPHED

19 MAY – 3 JUL

This major exhibition looks at the relationship between photography and the British seaside from the 1850s to the present. Images of the beach, hotel life, the holiday camp, dressing up and dressing down, wild waves and coastlines all combine to create a rich picture of our resorts.

As well as featuring the work of well known photographers including Jane Bown, Vanley Burke, Anna Fox, Paul Nash, Martin Parr, and Ingrid Pollard, the curators have included rich and often unknown work from across photography's history, including Raymond Lawson's remarkable chronicle of family life at the seaside.

Dafydd Jones, Barry Lewis, and Daniel Meadows all photographed at Butlins in the 1970s and Grace Robertson records the raucous goings-on of a women's day out to the coast in the 1950s. Composer Benjamin Britten and tenor Peter Pears, partners in music and in life, created a haven by the sea that they preserved in photographs.

For the exhibition, WILD Young Parents' Project, in partnership with Newlyn Art Gallery & The Exchange, commissioned photographer Steve Tanner to work with the mums and dads in the West Cornwall groups to investigate their relationship to the sea. What is the reality for them of living in this remote, rural county that so many people escape to on holiday?

Curated by Val Williams and Karen Shepherdson, Seaside: Photographed is a touring exhibition organised by Turner Contemporary, with support from Arts Council England's Strategic Touring Fund.

IN YOUR HANDS

24 JUL – 16 OCT

In Your Hands is a group exhibition connecting international artists with people in Cornwall in collaborations to realise or fabricate their artwork. The artists are putting the making of their art into the hands of others, placing their trust in them and embracing the individual contributions they make.

While the pandemic has brought restrictions to travel, there is an ever-growing desire to be part of international networks. Touch has been very much missed, and In Your Hands explores new connections, inviting a dance between continents; a call and response with words and flowers; and an ode to the home we have all spent so much time in.

Arinda Daphine, Ugandan poet and dancer, is devising a performance-for-camera with Shallal Dance Theatre. Lenka Clayton & Phillip Andrew Lewis, based in Pittsburgh, USA, are commissioning the oldest existing net-maker in the UK to make a vast single net made of every size mesh that they produce. Benny Nemer, a Canadian based in Paris, will send a personal card each week to a local florist, who will respond with a different floral arrangement for the gallery. Klaas Rommelaere, based in Antwerp, is creating a fabric room furnished with cross-stitched objects, ornaments and possessions created by more than 80 people across the UK.

In the Studio, instructions to make artworks will be presented by our collective of young artists, the Collaborators, as part of Georgia Gendall's ongoing project Forced Collaborations.

OUTSIDE THE ALGORITHM

24 JUL – 09 OCT

Still from Keiken's Viral Energy Game.

Outside The Algorithm offers a lively space for interaction and reflection, with a range of media and artworks including interactive projections, a controversial electric-acoustic radio album, experimental film from international female artists, creative coding, and meditative GIFs.

Artists and works featured include Damjanski, a contemporary Yugoslavian artist living in a browser, and his experimental software called Bye Bye Camera, an app that seeks to remove any human presence, with a taste of the Uncanny Valley.

Chez Conversations, an all-female New York collective, present The Age of Misinformation, a short film that questions the reality of connection through technology. Viral Energy Game, a new interactive AR game from digital collective Keiken, explores our dependency towards our screens and how these self-centred technologies evoke connection, yet can produce loneliness.

Cyber feminist Laurence Rassel and trans-activist Terre Thaemlitz present an excerpt from their electro-acoustic radio drama album (with spoken word), which examines gender politics and features Peggy Phelan. The cutting-edge work was deemed so controversial that German Public Radio banned it from broadcast.

DIGITAL SKILL WORKSHOPS

There will be a series of digital skills workshops for young people throughout the summer. See our website / social media for details.

With an emphasis on affordable works, The Picture Room at Newlyn Art Gallery and The Engine Room at The Exchange both offer the opportunity to buy art and craft by some of the region's most recognised artists.

KERRY HARDING PAINTED POSTCARDS

KITTY HILLIER FACING THE SUN

24 JUL – 4 SEP

Kitty Hillier's work is rooted in what's above and what's below the surface, with a belief that all things are connected. Her paintings and sculptural installations comprise layers of overlapping, biomorphic shapes derived from everyday details, made with a diverse range of materials.

SARAH WOODS COASTLINE ETCHINGS

8 SEP – 30 OCT

A series of studies from the coast surrounding her studio, focusing on simple forms and the balance of land next to water. The process of each print is slowly worked by hand with simple mark-making, the etchings are inspired by the light on our coastline at the beginning and end of the day.
