SORAYA SMITHSON
POEMS - OBJECTS - EXHIBITION

Soraya Smithson is looking for people to take part in her weeklong investigation into 'Poems-Objects-Exhibition'. She invites you to join in the discussions and making sessions, for a whole day, half day or just popping in when you can. You don't need to be an expert in any of the subjects, just a willingness to join in and take part.

Lunch and refreshments will be provided.

"My idea is to explore the writing of poetry, the putting on of exhibitions, and the 'architecture' of the written word and space. I see a link between the placing of words in a sentence, and the placing of (art) objects in a space. Both an exhibition and a poem are about being read and travelled through, with both acts hopefully stimulating thoughts & provocations and making new connections for the viewer/reader. I hope to bring together poets, architects, artists, curators, and everyone else, to discuss-and-make objects & poems as an exhibition."

CURRENT TIMETABLE & TITLE OF SESSIONS:

Tue 19 Feb: Making the Space, with an architect

Wed 20 Feb: Reading the Space, with a writer

Thu 21 Feb: Filling the Space, with a curator

Fri 22 Feb: Writing the Space, with a poet

Sat 23 Feb: Viewing the Space, with an artist
